By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Apr. 3.—The country's present business boom is on a sound foundation, Secretary Hoover said today and added that there is good reason to expect a long continuance of prosperity. He pointed to the fact that production now is at a high point yet it is equalled by consumption. Likewise, prices, he said, were not showing a runaway tendency.

THE HUMAN RACE MAY GO BLIND, BUT OUR HANDS WILL SERVE US AS EYES

By Roy Gibbons

CHICAGO, April 4.—Two thousand years from today man will be seeing with his hands?

Will civilization advance to appoint where it will destroy through issue the normal facilities of sight and hearing and force watchful nature to come to the rescue and supply us with a sixth sense—what scientists are now calling a "compensating sense."

All this is suggested by experiments now under way by Professor Robert H. Gault, head of the department of psychology of Northwestern University here, who already has succeeded in transmitting spoken messages through the fingertips of a subject whose ears were covered by sound-proof bandages.

Further weight is given to Gault's theories by Carl Bostrom, Chicago youth who is totally blind. Bostrom is able perfectly to "see" his way about depending entirely on the highly sensitized nerves in his cheeks, which enable him to detect trees, buildings, and people with as much accuracy as would normal eyes.

Bostrom's statements have been confirmed by rigorous scientific tests.

"Synthetic Sight"

In these phenomena medical experts agree lies the possibility of restoring synthetic sight to the blind and hearing to the deaf.

"We are on the threshold of a great discovery," Professor Gault says. "We are just starting to tap a great reservoir in man of heretofore unsuspected power.

"Nature has equipped the average human being with limitless compensating forces which if once understood will enable the maimed and handicapped once more to resume their places as useful members of society.

"They will be given what might be called substitute organs to take the place of those of which they have been deprived.

In view of the fact that service at the postoffice is greatly crippled on account of the loss of the auxiliary clerk which will continue until July 1, Postmaster Chas. E. Cooke says that business men of the city should cooperate in every way possible so that the clerks will be able to handle the outgoing mail promptly. The morning mail should be in at the postoffice at noon so that the clerks, who would otherwise not be busy, can get the mail properly sorted.

When the mail is all brought in the evening, the clerks are completely swamped with work and do not have time to sort the mail so that it can leave on the next mail trains. With the proper cooperation of all the business houses, however, one hundred per cent efficiency may still be maintained at the postoffice and this will insure to the benefit of the business men in that several hours a day's delay will be eliminated.

The auxiliary clerk was taken from the postal force on March 31 on account of a shortage in the postal apportionment at Washington and similar conditions prevail in all other postoffices which have using supernumerary clerks.

AUGUST THYSSEN
STILL REMAINS
KING IN GERMANY

Industrial Ruler in Essen Head of Influential Centre Party, Un- affected by Pomp and Aristocracy

NOW 82, LEAD SIMPLE LIFE—WORK BIGGEST FACTOR

By Milton Bronner LONDON, April 2—When revolution raged in Germany and a big "Ex" was placed in front of the name of every German kaiser, king, prince and grand duke, there was a little, old gray man down in the Rhineland who still remained a king—King August Thyssen.

In spite of the fact that French armies still hold the Ruhr and the Rhineland, and have erected customs barriers, Thyssen is still a king. He is king of one of the vastest industrial enterprises in the world and he is king of one of the most important political parties not only of the old but also of the new Germany.

Thyssen is one of the makers of modern Germany. He is one of a half dozen men, all of whom lived in the Kultur and the Rhineland, who saw the possibilities in Rhineland and Ruhr coal and iron. Like old Krupp of Essen and old Stinnes, father of Hugo, the Great at Mülheim, Thyssen by dint of work and business genius created one of the giant fortunes of the new Germany. Today he lords it over about 70,000 men, many of whom differ with him in politics and religion, but who will stick tight to him in the present struggle against France.

When I was in Essen some months ago, both workingmen and bosses told me proudly that Wilhelm never liked to come to the Ruhr because the people here didn't take stock in his pompous airs and bombastic speeches. The plain people didn't applaud him and the great industrialists didn't fawn on him for decorations and titles. In fact, they refused that kind of "honor."

Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it; if a man would give all the substance of his house for love, it would utterly be contended.—Solomon 8:7.

The objects that we have known in better days are the main props that sustain the weight of our afflictions, and give us strength to await our future lot.—William Hazlitt.

KEEP CHILDREN
OFF THE STREETS

Doubtless the reason that Middlesboro does not have public playgrounds for children is that they have our busy streets for this purpose. No mother wants to endanger the life of her child, of course yet who do many allow their small children to play on the streets all day long and often far into the night? By doing this they are deliberately exposing them to injury or loss of life from speeding vehicles.

Small boys and girls, those too young to attend school, may often be seen in large numbers dodging traffic on the busy streets and seeming to enjoy the thrill. Children of such tender age are careless and thoughtless and are not expected to use the same precautions in crossing streets as older persons. That many of them have not been injured or killed is surely due to extraordinary care of drivers.

Mother should certainly keep their small children away from the streets. The little ones are of course a great deal of trouble and it is almost impossible to keep them indoors or inside the lot on the warm sunny days, but many parents are doing this and the others could do the same.

During the afternoon and evenings crowds of small boys may usually be found at entrances to picture shows. Usually they have no money but they suffer no embarrassment whatever in asking for admission fees from adult picture patrons or pedestrians. Some of them, it seems, attend the shows every day, usually on money they have solicited for kindly disposed citizens. This practice should be discouraged, first by the parent's more stringent surveillance of the pastime of the child and secondly by the refusal of money to them.

It is unfortunate that Middlesboro has no well-equipped, supervised playgrounds. Other cities have long ago solved the problem of keeping the children off the streets by establishment of outdoor recreational places. There are about three thousand children in the city, most of whom seek outside recreation when not in school.

Measures adopted now by parents to keep their small children off the busy streets might avert a fatal accident later on. The matter is worth serious consideration.

LABOR HALTS
BUILDING PLANS

The evident intention of those affiliated with the building trades in many of the larger cities in the United States to insist upon an upward revision of wage schedules has had the expected results. Already, especially in some of the cities in the east, projects are being abandoned, at least for the time being, simply because promoters and contractors are unable to make estimates of probable costs. The simple assertion that wages paid at present in the building industry are high enough and should not be raised does not answer the question. It may quite reasonably be insisted by those who are seeking and obtaining advances in their wings that they are entitled to all they can get. They are simply following the line marked out by those who defend their own methods of profiteering by the same specious argument.

SOMEONE IS DUE FOR AN AWAKENING

But there is, when the matter is viewed from all sides, an economic barrier beyond which it is not wise to prudent for those of any class or occupation to go. When, because of what others call inordinate greed, it is found necessary to suspend or limit building operations, those who earn their daily bread in the building trades are bound to suffer, no matter how excessive the scale of wages for the few who work may be. In New England, during recent years, there have been protracted periods of complete unemployment in the building industry. Following each settlement of wage disputes there has been a partial resumption of activity, shortened, usually, by new demands for increased wages. The result is, and it is easy enough to explain, that those who would naturally seek employment in the industry have been forced to find work elsewhere. In addition, the attraction which the trade once offered to apprentices has been lost because of the uncertainties encountered. Thus matters have gone from bad to worse, with the loss shared by idle workingmen, investors and rent payers.

The logical solution is simple enough. Perhaps it is too simple to appeal to those who can, if they will, provide the remedy. It seems certain that wages in the building industry can not be increased. But if the daily pay of a few is raised, as the workers insist it must be, it will still further limit the opportunities of artisans and their helpers who seek employment in the allied building trades. On the other hand, a reasonable wholesale reduction in wage scales would stimulate building, afford work for all seeking employment, and attract to the trades many youths, both American and immigrant, who are ready to serve apprenticeships therein.

The equalizing process offers itself as the only promising solution of a grave and economic problem—Christian Science Monitor.

"TAKE IT FROM ME" IS
MELODIC PAGEANT OF YOUTH

A melodic pageant of youth, with more laughs, song hits and pretty girls than any musical show in years in "Take It From Me" coming to the Manning Theatre Friday night.

It is not typical. For from it this fact probably accounts in a measure, at least, for its extreme popularity. It is a marvel of stage craft constructed upon original lines. But the play is not limited to the background; it appears with equal weight in the superb chorus of singers, nimble dancers, and clever principals who furnish the action. And the action is swift, the situation ludicrous, the dialogue luminous with wit, the interpretation admirable. The original New York company will be seen here which includes Alice Hills, Marjorie Sweet, Robert Capron, Joseph M. Wilton, Myra Tressa Beach Cooke, Frank Gardiner, Chic Burnham, Charles Welsh Homer, Henry W. Pemberton, Kathleen Butler, Jane Haleston, Marjorie Fielding, Robert Hart, Bud Lorraine, Dorothy Dana, Earl Weling, Charles Heffron, and a large stunning chorus.

LETTER FROM BEATRICE GRIMSHAW TO SALLY ATHERTON
—A CONTRAST IN MARRIAGES

DEAR SALLY:

I wish I had the pen of a novelist. I would write the story in which I would contrast the weddings of my two dearest friends. There would have to be second volume, you know, after you have both had some years of wedded life. I expect you will both come to the same thing at last, a beautiful old age with grandchildren around your knees.

Your wedding, dear Sally, was so quietly unconventional, without even a new gown for the occasion. You slipped away at the noon hour and married Sam. And yet, there was something very solemn, very sacred about the simple ceremony up there in the mayor's office, with just myself and the mayor's secretary for witnesses.

Do you know that I came to the conclusion that, after all, the ceremony of marriage is not necessarily a religious rite? If one complies with the civil laws on one's country and truly keeps one's faith in love and then one loved, that is a continual religious sacrament.

I have been wondering if this were true, and seeing you and Sam drop into your life so quietly and calmly, yet so happily, I almost came to the conclusion that, after all, yours was the right way.

Then I came back here to all the great pageant of Leslie's wedding. Six bridesmaids, my dear, with your 'umble servant the maid of honor. Our gowns and hats, which were furnished by Mr. Hamilton, cost two hundred dollars for each girl. The bride's gift to each one of us is to be a solid gold vanity case and we are now having a round of festivities that could only be equaled in court circles when the bride was of royal blood. It's all very grand and Leslie's husband-to-be seems one of the nicest chaps I have ever known. Leslie is perfectly oblivious of everything now that he has arrived, but before he came she had no time to think of the responsibilities she was going to assume, in her mad rush from dressmaker to bootmaker and to the lingerie shop.

Of course you understand that Mrs. Hamilton is in her element. She never had a chance before of impressing the Hamilton millions upon the society people of Sharon.

Leslie's wedding will be something to remember, but, after all, dear, I expect when you read the sentence you will say—"and my wedding was something to remember." Each to his taste and kind.

I told mother about you the other night and this was her comment: "I hope Sally has a good maid. Under the circumstances in which she has begun her wedded life a good maid of all work will be more essential to success than a good man to love."

"A woman who works outside her home and tries to play business woman and home woman too," she continued, "either breaks up her health or the serenity of her home."

There, I didn't mean to preach. You and Leslie are the two dearest friends I have in the world. I always have told both of you that I was going to be an old maid aunt of your children. I am still holding to that resolve, notwithstanding the 'two best men in the world' that are your choices.

I will write and send you descriptions of Leslie's wedding.

With lots of love to Sam and just codles for yourself, I am always the same old—

BEATRICE.

THE SEASONS ROUND

How smooth and quick the year
Spins me the seasons round!
How many days have slid across my mind
Since we had snow pitying the frozen ground!

Then winter sunshine cheered
The bitter skies; the snow,
Reluctantly obeying lofty winds,
Drew off in shining clouds,
Wishing it still might love
With its white mercy the cold earth beneath.

But when the beautiful ground
Lights upward all the air,
Noon thawes the frozen leaves,
And makes the rime on post and paling
steam

Silvery blue smoke in the golden day.
And soon from loaded trees in noiseless woods

The snows slip thudding down,
Scattering in their trail.

Bright icy sparks through the glittering air;

And the fir-branches, patiently bent
so long,

Sigh as they lift themselves to rights again.

Then warm moist hours steal in,
Such as can draw the year's
First fragrance from the sap of cherry wood

Or from the leaves of budless violets;
And travellers in lanes
Catch the hot tawny smell
Reynard's damp fur left as he sneaked marauding

Across from gap to gap:
And in the larch woods on the highest boughs

The long eared owls like gray cats sitting still
Peer down to quiz the passengers below

Lasting — Economical

Sheetrock doesn't clutter up your home as plastering does when it is being put on the walls. For this reason if for no other the housewife will prefer Sheetrock. Rock is nature's permanent building material. Sheetrock is the most durable wallboard because it is made from rock.

6 REASONS

practice should be discontinued by the parent's more stringent surveillance of the pastime of the child and secondly by the refusal of money to them.

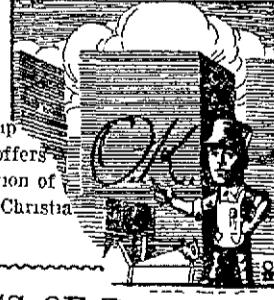

It is unfortunate that Middlesboro has no well equipped, supervised playgrounds. Other cities have long ago solved the problem of keeping the children off the streets by establishment of outdoor recreational places. There are about three thousand children in the city, most of whom seek outside recreation when not in school.

Measures adopted now by parents to keep their small children off the busy streets might avert a fatal accident later on. The matter is worth serious consideration.

LABOR HALTS BUILDING PLANS

The evident intention of those affiliated with the building trades in many of the larger cities in the United States to insist upon an upward revision of wage schedules has had the expected results. Already, especially in some of the cities in the east, projects are being abandoned, at least for the time being, simply because promoters and contractors are unable to make estimates of probable costs. The simple assertion that wages paid at present in the building industry are high enough and should not be raised does

MORE SOUND PROOF—

Sheetrock, because of its peculiar composition, its great thickness and its permanence, is a non conductor of sound—enhances the privacy and comfort of every room.

THICKER AND STRONGER—

Sheetrock is almost twice as thick as ordinary wallboard, yet it is sufficiently light in weight for easy, rapid handling. The large, tough sheets can be sawed and nailed just like wooden boards.

LAY CHRISTIAN CHURCH FOUNDATION NEXT FALL

Plans have been made by the building committee of the Christian church to begin to lay the foundation of the new Christian church early next fall so that they may settle during the winter months. Construction of the building will begin next spring.

The new church will be at the corner of Twenty-second street and Cumberland avenue on the vacant lot owned by the Christian church. The cost of the building will be approximately $50,000. The lot has a frontage of seventy-five feet and is an ideal location for the church. The old church building now used will be sold when the new edifice is completed according to the present plans of the committee.

NEW WHOLESALE HOUSE SELLS CANDY, DRUGS, SPECIALTIES

The latest wholesale concern to be established in Middlesboro is the Warren P. Rash wholesale house, which will handle candy, drugs and specialties.

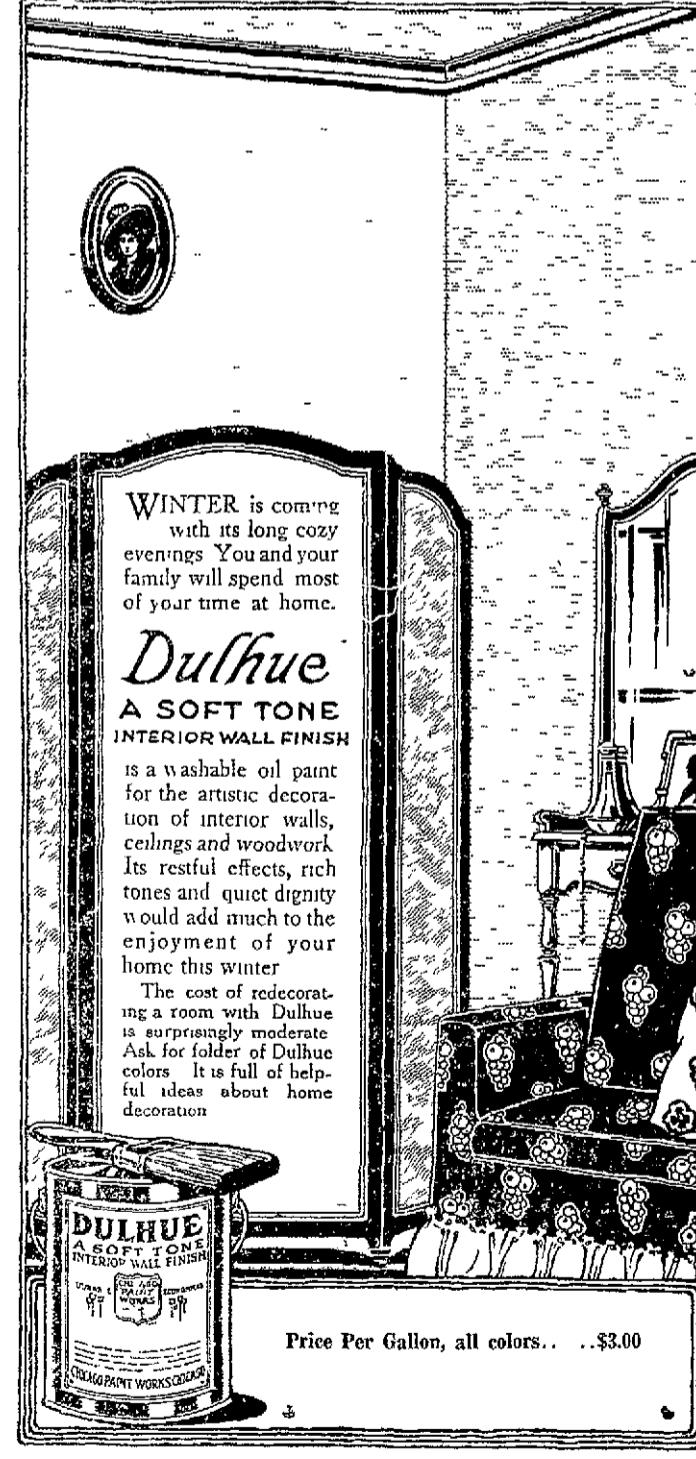

This new concern is owned and operated by Warren P. Rash and his warehouse, for the present, will be in vacant rooms back of the Green Parrot on Cumberland Avenue.

Mr. Rash is well and favorably known in local business circles, having worked here first in the drug business, later as head of the Warren P. Rash Co., and most recently as president and general manager of the Rash Manufacturing Co. He resigned this last position to go into business for himself.

Western Type at $12,145

PLANS FOR THIS SIX-ROOM HOUSE WERE DESIGNED BY CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU, CLINTON, IA.

Three architectural achievements are typified in this six-room home of the western type. It is distinctive, without extreme; its design bears the test of good taste and right principles; and it combines a maximum of convenience with economy of material.

It is so planned that standard sizes and lengths of standard materials can be used throughout. There is just the right amount of relief in the shadow of the open cornice, the projecting upper story, the divided light windows with their batten shutters, the lattices on each porch and the simple, inviting entrance.

This is a home for a good-sized family. Convenience is the keynote. The kitchen, for instance, has as pleasant a location as any room in the house, being on a front corner.

Easily Accessible

From it one can reach the vestibule to answer the front door, the upstairs, the basement and the downstairs lavatory, all without passing through any other room. The pantry may be left open for the delivery of ice without intrusion into any other part of the house. There are outside as well as inside basement steps.

There is a delightful breakfast room with so many windows that it is a veritable conservatory. The main dining room is large enough for many guests. The unusual hominess of both dining room and living room, in spite of their large size, is probably due to their built-in woodwork—corner china closets, bookcases, window seat, fireplace, French doors.

Privacy For Guests

Guests are provided for in the sleeping quarters, too. Any one of the three bedrooms upstairs can be grouped with a private bath, since there are two excellent bathrooms.

Among the second floor features that catch the eye of the good housekeeper are three hanging closets, two tray cases, a built-in dressing table, a large store closet, a broom closet, linen closet, medicine cabinets and a window seat which can also be used a chest for storing various things.

Cost of this house is set at $12,145 by Curtis Service Bureau, Clinton, Ia. It includes plumbing, heating, and wiring, but may vary in different localities.

WORK HELD UP ON CITY LUMBER AND SUPPLY SIDETRACK

Work on the proposed side track of the City Lumber and Supply is held up because it conflicts with the interests of the Kentucky Utilities Company and until the matter is adjusted the work cannot be completed. Survey for the work has already been done.

Business is booming at the new lumber company, according to reports of officials. A number of house patterns have already been furnished and there are a number of orders yet to fill. A number of small buildings have been erected on the property owned by the firm and a number of others are now being constructed.

F. L. RENNEBAUM BUILDING NEW GARAGE ON FITZPATRICK

A garage and warehouse building fifty feet wide and 200 feet long will be built by F. L. Rennebaum on Fitzpatrick avenue near Cumberland avenue. Work of excavating is being done now and it is thought that the building will be entirely finished in three months. It will be built of brick and stone and will be one story in height.

F. L. Rennebaum's garage and repair shop will occupy part of the building while the remainder will be used for storage purposes by another firm. A lease for half the building is being negotiated now. This is the first garage to be built on the Dixie Highway route through Middlesboro. A steam shovel has been at work several days in removing the large quantities of dirt to make a level foundation. Efforts are being made to have the building substantial and modern in every respect.

ARMOUR & CO. REMODELING STORE HOUSE ON ASHBURY

Armour and company will use the old brick building adjoining the Ralston wholesale house on Ashbury avenue for a storage house as soon as it has been remodeled. Work or replacing the old and worn floor by a new one supported by heavy timbers and made of two inch lumber is being done now.

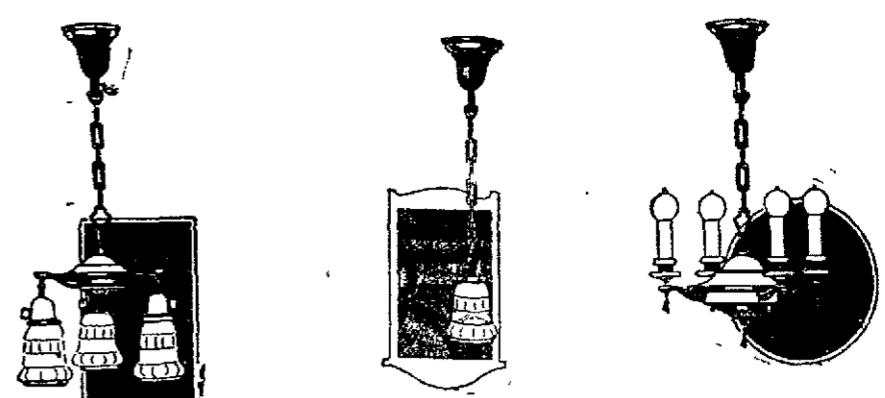

The building is about thirty years old, being one of the first brick buildings to be erected in that section. Originally used as a saloon, it has since been used for many purposes. The saloon can be worked up. Marsee's meat market moved out of the building a short time ago.

R. B. NEWMAN TO REMODEL HIS WOOD-WORKING SHOP

R. B. Newman, owner of a wood-working shop at the corner of Cumberland and Fitzpatrick avenues, is planning an extensive addition to his building. The added room will have a frontage of thirty feet on Fitzpatrick avenue and extend back for fifty feet. Mr. Newman makes a specialty of building bus bodies for automobile chassis. He has built several during the past few months and is now completing one for the Dwing route. This work will be done in the addition when it is completed while his machinery will be left in the old building.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized, it stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles, of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

ARBUTUS HAILED BY POETS AS TRUE SPIRIT OF SPRING

By F. S. Lee, Engineer

The mountain sides which encompass Middlesboro are now and will be for the next four or five weeks, adorned by the Trailing Arbutus, or Mayflower, or Ground Laurel, the flower which is considered by those who have become the willing captives of the witchery of its loveliness and fragrance, the finest and most beautiful of any or all of the flowers of the spring time.

We look for these flowers in March and April in this locality in the open woods, of oak, pine, on sandy or rocky and sunny hillsides, and under the dead brown leaves of last year. Appearing as they do when we are earnestly desirous of some positive declaration of the advent of Spring they receive from those who appreciate them the gladdest welcome of the year.

In the poem itself he wonders what the shi phad.

"Within her ice rimmed bay

In common with the wild wood flowers

The first sweet smiles of May.

"Yet God be praised the Pilgrims said
Who saw the blossoms peer
Above the brown leaves, dry and dead,
Behold our Mayflower here.

"God wills it, here our rest shall be,
Our years of wandering o'er,
For us the Mayflower of the sea

Shall spread her sails no more.

"O, sacred flowers of faith and hope,
As sweetly now as then,
Te bloom on many a birchen slope,
In many a pine dark glen.

"So live the fathers in their sons,
Their sturdy faith be ours,
And ours the love that overruns
The rocky strength with flowers."

STRAWBERRY CAKE

Separate the whites and yolks of three eggs. Beat the yolks until thick and light-colored, then add one cup of sugar and beat well. Sift one cup of flour with one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon of salt, and add this to the beaten egg yolks and sugar, stirring it in lightly.

Add one tablespoon of hot water and two teaspoons of lemon juice, put into a well-buttered pan and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Cool, split and fill with strawberries sweetened to taste. On top place stiffly beaten cream, sweetened and flavored.

Another attractive way to serve this cake is to cut a piece from the center, leaving a wall one inch thick on the sides and one-half inch on the bottom. Fill the center with the strawberries and cover with stiffly beaten cream.
